Mr. Lawson, of Boston, is so stuck on his boat, the Independence, that he offers to race her against the winner of the America cup for $100,000.

Ten thousand people went to hear Wm. J. Bryan speak at Platte City, Missouri. The New York Sun construes this as an indication that Wm. J. is a very live corpse.

Peter McNally began his swim from Boston to New York several days ago. He expects to paddle about twenty-five miles a day. He will be pretty wet by the time he finishes.

A scientific association in session at Denver, Colorado, has discovered that there were no such people as Adam and Eve. This will be disappointing news to Mark Twain, after having shed tears so copiously over the grave of Adam.

They are now charging the mosquito with being the purveyor of numerous diseases, but he (or rather she, for it is the female of the family that is charged with all this meanness) is buzzing right along and attending to business as if nothing had happened.

Borers struck oil in Walker county, Alabama, near Cordova, a few days ago, and a "spouter" too. It was struck at a depth of 1,150 feet, about the same depth as in the Beaumont, Texas, field. This means, if true, that there is a big oil tank under Alabama.

Prince Chun didn't kowtow to Kaiser William. He only flung his cue back, smiled a child-like and bland smile and said he was sorry there had been any unpleasantness between his country and its good friend the Kaiser, and that they would be real good in future.

RESOLUTIONS OF REGRET

Forwarded by Eyota Tribe of Red Men to President McKinley's Secretary.

At the regular meeting last night of Eyota Tribe No. 5, Improved Order of Red Men, the attempted assassination of President Wm. McKinley was announced and commented upon regretfully by those in attendance. President McKinley is a member of the order, having his membership with an Ohio tribe, and the following telegram was ordered sent to the President's private secretary:

G. B. Cortelyou, Private Secretary to President McKinley, Buffalo, N. Y.:

Eyota Tribe, Improved Order of Red Men, request you to extend to Mrs. McKinley our heartfelt sympathy and express our hope for the speedy recovery of our good brother, the President. J. M. McGOWAN, Chief of Records.

THE MUTUAL FIDELITY COMPANY.

Will Use Express Service Until Mails Are Again Open to Them.

The STAR some time ago published the fact that the Mutual Fidelity Company, at Deleware, which until recently had a large number of contract holders in Wilmington, had been debarred from use of the United States mails. Other tactics have now been devised for a continuation of the business as the following special from Norfolk to yesterday's Richmond Dispatch will show:

"NORFOLK, VA., Sept. 5.—Although the Mutual Fidelity Company of Delaware, formerly of Maryland, but whose general offices are here, cannot under the ruling of the Postoffice Department, use the mails further, the General Superintendent, Mr. R. E. Jordan, says the concern will employ the express service until the Government shall reverse the postoffice decision."

Cotton Crop Movement.

The receipts of cotton in the Wilmington market for the first week of the new crop year shows a decided falling off from the same period last year. For the first week in September this season only 78 bales of new cotton has been received against 7,653 bales during the same week in 1900. This, it is said, is due largely to the lateness of the Fall and weather unfavorable to opening. The local quotations now are on a basis of 8¼ cents for middling, whereas on the same day last year the quotations were 9¼ cents.

WILL PAVE PRINCESS.

Contract Let Yesterday for Improving Two Blocks of Prominent Street.

COAL, CEMENT & SUPPLY CO.

Were Successful Bidders and Work Will Begin at Once—Fire Proof Blocks, Which Are Said to be Admirably Adapted, Will be Used.

The two blocks of Princess street between Second and Fourth will be paved and paved at once.

Mayor Waddell, acting as chairman of the Streets and Wharves Committee, in the absence of Alderman E. P. Bailey, who is now looking after a large plumbing contract in Charleston, S. C., let the contract yesterday to the Coal, Cement and Supply Company, of this city, and the views of Col. Waddell as to the necessity of immediate street work are so well known that the reader will readily admit that the work will in all probability be done "forthwith, if not sooner."

The paving will be done with fireproof blocks, about one-third larger than the ordinary vitrified brick, and are said to be excellently suited to street paving. Niches are cut in each block so that one fits into another, making them lay entirely compact and very durable. The blocks are already in the city and can be transported to the grounds in short order. They are said to be more durable than the vitrified brick and will make a much smoother surface.

The contract, of course, is subject to the approval of the Board of Audit and Finance but as the regular appropriation has already been made for this department, no trouble in the matter of concurring is anticipated. The contract includes all the work of grading, filling and laying the blocks, so that all the city will have to do in the matter is to stand aside and see the work done.

Mr. S. P. Adams, one of the managing stockholders in the Coal, Cement and Supply Company, is a thoroughly efficient civil engineer and will give his personal supervision to the work, thereby ensuring its excellency. Mayor Waddell has a certificate from the superintendent of streets of the city of Philadelphia fully setting forth the adaptability of the fire proof blocks to street pavement. Several streets in that city have been paved with them and they have given the best of satisfaction.

Mayor Waddell thinks the two blocks on Princess street can be paved at a cost of less than $3,000 to the city and this figure is regarded as very low. Of course the expense of paving that section of the street which passes along the old court house, the new court house and jail will be pro rated between the city and county and private property owners along the two blocks will be assessed in proportion to the increase of value by reason of the paving.

In the course of time, it is expected that the paving will be extended still further up Princess street.

Mr. Burgess Marshall Here.

Mr. Burgess W. Marshall, an old Wilmington boy who has fast achieved success in the governmental service in Washington and who now holds the very important position of Assistant Town Site Commissioner for the city of Lawton, Oklahoma, reached home yesterday morning on a vacation of twenty days which he will spend here with his parents. Mr. Marshall has not long since left Oklahoma and will perhaps return West via Washington when his furlough has expired.

Left For New York.

Mr. Fred. M. Fulford, a clever young business man, who has for several years been interested in the Wilmington Stamp Works, left last night for New York, where he will be interested in the manufacture of a new and meritorious inkstand device recently invented by Mr. J. C. Lodor, of this city. Mr. Fulford has many friends here who wish him an abundant success in the metropolis.

Sunday River Excursions.

For the benefit of those who desire to spend perhaps the last Sunday of the season at Southport, Capt. Harper announces that both the usual trips on the steamer Wilmington will will be run to that delightful resort to-morrow. The first boat will leave the city at 9:45 A. M. and the last at 2:30 P. M. The fare will be only 25 cents for the round trip.

Convicts from Pender.

Sheriff W. W. Alderman yesterday brought down to the city two convicts sentenced by Judge Allen at this week's term of Pender county to road duty in New Hanover. They are Sam Hooper, four months, and Cornelius Wright, ten months.

Death in Brunswick.

Undertaker Walter E. Yopp yesterday sent a casket to Brunswick county for the burial of Mrs. Hall, wife of Mr. Will Hall, who is a brother of the late ex-policeman Samuel Hall, of this city. Her death occurred yesterday morning.

Real Estate Transfer.

Samuel Holmes conveyed by deed recorded at the Court House yesterday to John N. Richardson and wife for $250, a house and lot on the north side of Dock, between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets, the lot being 60 by 75 feet in size.

THE YACHT RACE AND CLUB FROLIC.

Affair Under Auspices of Carolina Club, One of Most Enjoyable of Season. The "Sadie" Won.

Probably the most brilliant social season in the history of Wrightsville Beach was closed last night with the farewell dance at the Carolina Yacht Club.

The club's last regatta for the year was sailed on yesterday over its regular course in the Banks Channel, and the dance last night was a fitting finale to the day's pleasures.

In the race yesterday seven yachts reported for the start, which was made from a point opposite the club house at 3 o'clock, and all, with one exception, sailed the course. The weather conditions were perfect, and for the first four miles of the course the race was close and interesting. From a spectacular standpoint, however, the finish was a failure, as the victory of the "Sadie" was decisive and overwhelming. The start and finish was as follows:

"Sprite," Capt. W. A. Peschau, start 2:00; finish, 4:17.25.

"Sadie," Capt. S. P. Cowan, start 2:04; finish, 4:00.28.

"Yomalee," Capt. Geo. Davis, start 2:04.11; finish, 4:08.40.

"Mequiero," Capt. Geo. Thomas, Jr., start, 2:04.21; finish, 4:07.32.

"Question," Capt. R. A. Parsley, start, 2:04.31; finish, 4:05.50.

"Emma," Capt. G. C. Worth, start, 2:08.21; withdrew.

The starters and judges were Messrs. Geo. Harriss and F. K. Myers.

During the last leg of the course the "Emma" withdrew. The "Sprite" met with an accident to her rudder during the early part of the race but sailed the course.

Dancing at the club house began last night before 9 o'clock and was kept up until almost midnight, a special train to the city having been run at that hour for the convenience of clubmen and their guests. Quite a crowd from Wilmington went down on the 7:15 train to attend the frolic.

Among those present and dancing were noted: Misses Octavia Boatwright, Mildred Davis, Marie Peschau, Olive Armstrong, Leonora Cantwell, Jeanie Peck, Lucy Latham, Amy Harlow, Mabel Powers, Mr. and Mrs. Frank K. Myers, Miss Kate Mafflit, and Messrs. F. Ancrum Lord, James T. Munds, Henry McMillan, Henry Peschau, Octave Wiggins, Richard Bradley, Edwin Metts, John B. Peschau, W. C. Crow, Horace Emerson, Jr., Marsden Bellamy, Jr., James M. Stevenson and Zach Bell.

THE OPENING IN GREENSBORO.

Manager Schloss, of This City, Opened Opera House With Great Success.

A Greensboro correspondent has the following to say of the opening of Mr. S. A. Schloss' new opera house in that city:

The opening of the Grand Opera House, the auditorium in the new City Hall, last night, was a success in every particular. The attraction was Al. G. Field's Minstrels, and the crowd was in Greensboro for amusement. The proceeds from the sale of tickets amounted to $1,020. After the show Mr. Field was the guest of honor at a social session of the Greensboro lodge of Elks, held in the dining room at Hotel Clegg. In addition to the local Elks, a number of the order were present from other towns. Toasts were responded to by Mr. Field and his manager, Mr. Dan Quinlan; Mr. S. A. Schloss, of Wilmington; Mr. Thiers Leach, of High Point, and Messrs. N. J. O'Brien, H. A. Williams, George A. Mebane and C. G. Wright, of Greensboro. Mr. Chas. Van Noppen performed the duties of toastmaster. The crowd dispersed in the "wee sma' hours," after singing "Auld Lang Syne."

An Insolent Negro.

Henry Williams, colored, was arrested yesterday morning on the shell road near the second toll house by Capt. Robert Green, city detective. The negro gave the officer a desperate struggle, but there's no such word as "turn loose" in Capt. Green's vocabulary and he was very soon locked up in the station house. The negro is said to have addressed an insolent remark to a white lady on the Sound and Capt. Green met the fellow on the turn-pike in response to a telephone message.

Dr. Blackwell Returns To-day.

The Rev. Dr. Calvin S. Blackwell will return to-day from his vacation spent at different points in Virginia with relatives. He will preach at both services at the First Baptist Church to-morrow. Rev. Oscar L. Powers, of Willard, a talented young minister and forcible speaker, who has been supplying Dr. Blackwell's pulpit in his absence, has returned to his home.

Exchange of Baggage Stations.

Mr. F. Jolly, who has been serving very efficiently as baggage master between Wilmington and Columbia, has been made A. C. L. city baggage agent here to succeed Mr. J. C. McIver, who takes Mr. Jolly's place on the Wilmington-Columbia run. The STAR learns that the exchange of places between Messrs. Jolly and McIver was by mutual consent.

The Atlantic Coast Line have on sale round trip tickets to Buffalo, on account of Pan-American Exposition, with transit limit of five days in each direction and final limit twenty days, at the rate of one fare plus $1.00. Rate from Wilmington, $23.50. Stop-overs allowed within transit limit. These tickets sold via Philadelphia and Pennsylvania R. R., as well as via direct route.

BASEBALL REALM.

The Game Thursday at Kinston With Newbern Was a Warm Number Indeed.

THREW ROCKS AT TRAIN.

Numerous Fisticuffs Indulged In—Challenge to Play in Wilmington and Goldsboro—Game at Hilton This Afternoon—League Scores.

Judging from the Newbern Journal's account of the baseball game at Kinston Thursday in which seven members of Wilmington's late league team participated as members of the Newbern club, the times were "hot in that old town" for a certainty. The paper says the game "began in disorder and ended in turmoil." The seven car loads of Newbernians that went on the baseball train were "present at a scene of excitement and disorder that is without parallel in their recollection." Continuing further the Journal says:

"When all was over and the train pulled out for Newbern brick bats rattled on the cars like hail, people were struck by the missiles, among them ladies. It was necessary to protect the decorations to prevent them being torn from the cars."

All the blame for the trouble is attached by the paper to Smith and Sorber, late of the Raleigh team, whom it is claimed signed with Newbern and were persuaded off the train at Dover after passing Kinston on their way to Newbern. In speaking further of the final break-up of the game, the Journal says:

It was in the sixth inning that the climax of umpiring was reached. Players and rooters swarmed upon the field. The umpire was lost in the shuffle and fights broke out at several points. It was growing dark and the game could not have proceeded even if the field was cleared, and the word was given that the game was over.

In yesterday's Journal, under black headlines, is published a challenge to the Kinston team to play Newbern for $500 or $1,000 on each side, player for player as they were lined-up Thursday; gate receipts to be divided equally; umpire to be sent by President Nick Young, and game to be played in Wilmington or Goldsboro next Monday or Tuesday. The challenge concludes significantly: "Put up or shut up."

Yesterday afternoon the Newbern team played a game for the benefit of the players. No money was received from the Kinston affair.

Game at Hilton To-day.

Devotees of the National sport will have an opportunity of witnessing some good fast amateur ball at the Park here this afternoon. The High School Champions will go on the field against a crack team from the Wilmington Iron Works. Zellers and Zellers will compose the battery for the last named aggregation and Sellers and Moore will do the honors for the High School. The admission will be 15 cents for gentlemen and 10 cents for ladies.

Southern League Scores Yesterday.

Chattanooga, 8; Shreveport, 3.
Memphis, 19; Selma, 1.
Nashville, 8; New Orleans, 8. (Game called in the ninth inning on account of darkness.)
Birmingham, 9; Little Rock, 2

— The story on the streets yesterday was that one of the fisticuffs at Kinston Thursday was between "Jack" Frost, late of Wilmington, and Lehman, the Tarboro catcher, who is afflicted with St. Vitus' dance.

— It seems that Allen did not go to his home at Williamsport, Pa., this week as he announced when leaving Wilmington. He was scheduled to have formed the battery with Thackara in the exhibition game at Newbern yesterday.

— The New Orleans Picayune, in its retrospect of the games of the past week, has this to say: "Stewart, when he pitched a few innings, proved highly satisfactory, but Powell was saving Stewart for one of the Nashville series and he was therefore only given a part of the game. Freeland is now in the best shape of all the pitchers, and he promises to give Nashville a hard game to-morrow. Stewart will be used on Friday or Saturday, it depending upon which day the second game is played.

Excursion Yesterday.

A big excursion reached the city yesterday from Spring Hope, Nash county, and not from Hope Mills as was erroneously named in yesterday's STAR. There were 543 persons in the party and they were taken straight through to Wrightsville, returning to the city in the afternoon for a trip down the river on the steamer Wilmington. The train left for Spring Hope at 8 o'clock last night.

City Clerk on the Move.

Carpenters yesterday began the work of tearing away the plastering in the office of the City Clerk and Treasurer to make room for the improvements and installation of the new fixtures in the room. While the work is in progress City Clerk King has his office in the Board of Audit and Finance room.

Condition of Laurence Sprunt.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. James Sprunt rejoiced yesterday at the encouraging tenor of all the telegrams from the bedside of their little son, Laurence, whose critical illness has been noted. The conditions now are favorable and the physicians entertain hope of the boy's recovery.

Positively last day for Summer Souvenir Photographs at Taylor's Studio, $1.50 per dozen.

LOCAL DOTS.

— Rev. P. C. Morton expects to preach at Delgado Sunday morning and at 7:30 o'clock P. M.

— Rev. Dr. A. D. McClure will preach at Pearsall's School House, East Wilmington, Sunday afternoon, at 4 o'clock.

— The Rev. R. B. John, presiding elder of the Wilmington District M. E. church, will be the special speaker at the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. to-morrow afternoon.

— By special request Rev. Dr. A. D. McClure will preach at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church to-morrow night from the text: "Be still; know that I am with you." Psalms, 46th-10th.

— The Wilmington Red Men, who attended the Great Council meeting in Raleigh last week, have returned and speak in glowing terms of the hospitality shown them by the Indians of the Capital City.

— Miss Olivia Bridgen, of Cainluck township, Pender county, died Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, aged about 23 years. She was a daughter of Mrs. Sophia Pridgen. Relatives in the city yesterday received news of the sad death.

CONFEDERATE RALLY AT JONESBORO

A Big Picnic and Speeches by General Julian S. Carr and Others.

[Special Star Correspondence.]

JONESBORO, N. C., Sept. 6.—About 1,000 people were here yesterday to attend the Confederate Veteran's picnic and one of the most enjoyable days in the history of the town was spent. Great speeches were made by Gen. J. S. Carr, Durham; Hon. H. L. London, Pittsboro; Hon. Dan Hugh McLean, Harnett; Hon. A. A. F. Seawell, Jonesboro, and Judge McIver, of Carthage. The day will long be remembered by the old soldiers of this section.

Will Go to International Yacht Races.

The revenue cutter Algonquin was in port yesterday for supplies. The Algonquin will likely leave early next week to act as patrol boat for the great international yacht races at Newport on the 21st. The cutter performed this service at the race which took place just prior to her coming to Wilmington.

BY WILLIAM H. BERNARD

WILMINGTON, N. C.

SATURDAY MORNING, SEPT. 7.

SHACKLING TRUSTS.

Yesterday we published an article on Vice President Roosevelt's speech at Minneapolis, in which he paid some attention to trusts, remarkable attention as coming from one of the leading, representative and most conspicuous Republicans in the country, and an avowed candidate for the nomination for the Presidency. For expressing substantially the same sentiments, but in more direct and frank language Representative Babcock, a distinguished Republican leader of Wisconsin, has been characterized as a free trader by Hon. Chas. H. Grosvenor. The only substantial difference between Mr. Roosevelt's sentiments, as expressed in his Minneapolis speech, and the sentiments of Mr. Babcock, as expressed in his interviews and letters, is that the former says it may become necessary to "shackle cunning as in the past we have shackled force." It may be necessary, he says, to enact legislation which will shackle cunning, and protect wage workers and honest, humane employers, against unscrupulous competitors who have no conscience and will do right only under fear of punishment? That is taking a whole sentence to say what might have been expressed by one word, for it simply means that trusts must be held in check by legislation, and if State legislation cannot do it then there should be Federal legislation, supervision either by State or Federal Government.

He says that this may be necessary in future but Mr. Babcock says it is necessary now, and prescribes the remedy, (which Mr. Roosevelt does not) which is to remove the protective tariff from every article controlled by trusts and sold in foreign markets at a less price than it is sold for in the home market. While Mr. Babcock recognizes the existence of the monopolistic combinations he has a remedy to propose, to be put into effect at once, while Mr. Roosevelt, who also recognizes the existence of these combinations, goes only so far as to say that it may be necessary in future to shackle them, shackle cunning and competition without conscience, by some sort of legislation. There is something direct, positive and tangible in Mr. Babcock's remedy, while Roosevelt, with a Presidential nomination in perspective, was cautious, timid and too vague to say just where he stood. But he admits, all the same, that trusts—which are the "competitors without conscience," that he refers to—are powers for evil that must be shackled.

With the cunning characteristic of politicians with aspirations, presidential bees in their bonnets and all that sort of thing, he said care must be taken in such legislation as might be necessary not to hamper industrial enterprise, and thus throw obstacles in the way of the car of progress; that it was the monopolistic combination and not the honest combination of capital that should be "shackled." That is true, but everybody with any sense, who has given this subject any thought, knows the difference between an honest combination of capital and what is commonly known as a trust. One is simply an association of two or more men who unite their capital to do business on a large, more systematic and economical method without any view to monopoly or buying up or strangling competition. It simply enters an open market where it sells goods lower than its less effectively equipped competitors may sell them, if by its methods it can produce at a less cost and therefore be able to sell more cheaply. That is not a trust, it is merely taking advantage of more economic business methods. No one will object to that or ask for legislation to "shackle" such an enterprise.

The trust, on the contrary, is an entirely different thing and is based essentially on the monopolistic idea as its corner stone. It combines capital and monopoly for the purpose of doing business on a large scale and so equip itself as to be able to do that business in the most economical way, but with monopoly in view, to get the consumer in its power, it embraces if possible, within the combine, every plant in its line that might become a competitor and then strangle, if it can, those it cannot control by putting prices down until its purpose is accomplished and the competitor it wishes to get rid of is either forced to go into the combine, sell out or close up.

That's the trust as the American people see and understand it, the thing which Mr. Roosevelt says it may be necessary to "shackle" and which Mr. Babcock, and others who know that the Dingley tariff fosters these trusts, say must be shackled now.

A Cuban writes to the New York Sun that there are no venomous snakes in Cuba. There are snakes there but they are all so harmless that they might be taken into the family for household pets.

CRITICISING BRYAN.

There are some papers in this country always on the alert to find something in Wm. J. Bryan's speeches which they can object to and criticise adversely. If he was the dead man politically that they say he is, they need not be so anxious to counteract what he says, or or make so much of his utterances. He delivered an address on Labor Day at Kansas City, in the course of which he said: "Each decade of our history shows greater production of wealth, and the men who produce it have less to show for it."

This some of his opponents pronounce false, and yet it is practically true. As proof that it is false, they cite reports of deposits in savings and other banks to prove that the masses of the peoplo are in better circumstances than they were in times past. This is not a proof that the people are really better off than they have been, but simply going to show that with the multiplication of places of safe deposit, where interest is paid on deposits, people who manage to save a little money even out of small wages, by thrift and close economy, can show a little more money than was visible before this system of depositing was practiced as much as it is now. In the aggregate this sum may look large, but divide it pro rata among the number of toilers in the country and what a beggarly pittance it would be for each. That is no test of the advancement of the prosperity of the masses.

The wealth of a country comes primarily out of the earth either in the form of agricultural products, minerals, or timber. There are millions of people employed in this production. There are also millions of capital invested in handling them either in the crude or manufactured form. Now compare the profits that the owners of this capital have made with the profits that the producers have made, and say whether the statement of Mr. Bryan is not substantially true.

It is stated that 80,000 persons own one half the wealth of this country now and are steadily absorbing it. The cotton planters of the South have produced since 1865 about $12,000,000,000 worth of cotton. What have they to show for it? The grain producers of the country have produced more than that amount in value of grain. What have they to show for it? Until within the past few years the majority of both the cotton planters and grain growers were heavily in debt and could barely make ends meet, while the capitalistic combinations, favored by partial legislation, have been getting so rich that they are dominating all the fields of industry.

A SENSIBLE NEGRO.

T. G. Stewart, a negro chaplain in the United States army, who has served in the Philippines, delivered an address in Philadelphia a few days ago before the Philadelphia African Methodist Episcopal Preachers' Association, in which, among other things, he said:

"America, with all its short comings and injustice, with its sentiment of oppression and repression against the negro, is the best place for his development.

"It is a question whether or not the negro in America does not already enjoy all the rights and privileges he is prepared to enjoy. I do not despair of my race because of the restrictive or proscriptive laws in this country. I, therefore, have no special reason to advocate negro emigration to the Philippines or any other country. America is the best and greatest Christian nation the world has ever known."

Referring to the talk about negroes emigrating to the Philippines and the alleged inducements there offered, he said:

"The country offers some advantages to young men, but in my opinion not so great as has been represented. I think that colored young men of some means and good education and plenty of pluck might do well there, but it is no place for American laborers, black or white."

This man talks like a man of sense. The negro who could succeed in any country can succeed in this country if he will adopt the same methods here that would be necessary to success anywhere and so conduct himself as to command the respect and confidence of white people. Where this is the case the deserving, self-respecting, industrious negro who labors for his own betterment, without showing a disposition to antagonize white people or to lord it over them, can always find the way open to his own material, moral and mental advancement.

Every Southern State furnishes illustrations of this and further illustration is given by the statistics showing the wealth accumulations of negroes in the South.

Of course no sensible negro or white laborer would expect to better his condition by seeking employment in the Philippines, where there is little employment and where he will have to compete with native and Chinese coolie laborers who are willing to work for merely nominal wages.

A machinist in a New York power plant died while laughing the other day. He was sitting in a chair laughing heartily, tipped back until his head touched a live wire, and was killed so instantly that he looked like a corpse laughing at death.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—— People who are bragging about the great increase in our trade with the Philippines never stop to think that the soldiers we have sent over there need things from home.—Atlanta Journal, Dem.

—— It is all right to use reasonable effort to extend our trade in China, and such work may eventually increase the purchasing power of the Chinese common people. But for the present that market is limited by the fact that perhaps one in ten, but more probably one in fifty of the Chinese has any money to spend for anything beyond the barest necessities to sustain life.—Pittsburg Dispatch, Dem.

—— The death rate among the women and children in the "concentration camps" in South Africa is 150 per 1,000, and in one camp, according to an official report, 25 per cent. of the prisoners died in three months. And another general famine is threatened in India. Civilization by expansion of Christian government appears to be a costly business to the subjects of the process.—Charleston News and Courier, Dem.

—— Just how long the Boers may be able to hold out against overwhelming numbers is problematical, but, whatever may be the final result, it is clear that they have proven that courage and modern artillery are not quickly overcome by even a superior force. They have exposed the weakness of the British army system and have taught the whole world lessons in modern war. They have demonstrated their heroism and their tenacity, and have fulfilled Kruger's prediction that the cost of England's success in South Africa would "stagger humanity."—Baltimore Herald, Ind.

OFFICE OF D. H. HARDY, Sec. of State, AUSTIN, TEX., NOV. 21, 1900.

I have found Dr. Moffett's TEETHINA a splendid remedy and aid for my teething children. When my oldest boy a teething child, every succeeding day warned us that we would inevitably lose him. I happened upon TEETHINA, and began at once administering it to him, and his improvement was marked in 24 hours, and from that day on he recuperated. I have constantly kept it and used it since with my children, and have taken great pleasure in sounding its praises to all mothers of young children. I found it invaluable even after the teething period was passed.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

If brooms are hung in the cellarway, they will keep soft and pliant.

Lamp wicks should never be longer than will reach to the bottom of the oil well of the lamp.

If a piece of calico is pasted over holes and cracks in plaster, they may be whitewashed or papered over and will hardly show.

Add a little turpentine to the water with which the floor is scrubbed. It will take away the close smell and make the room delightfully fresh.

Excellent lamp wicks may be made of men's soft felt hats by cutting them into strips the width required, letting them soak two hours in vinegar and drying them.

A bed should never be made under two hours from the time it has been slept in. It should be aired thoroughly and beaten until it is light. Open all the bedroom windows and let the fresh air and sunlight into the room.

If you have handsome vases on the mantelpiece or on top of the bookcase, etc., fill them with clean dry sand, which will weight them so they will not be overturned easily. In buying any ornament be careful to examine the bottom and see that it is perfectly flat and so will stand steady.

Passenger Elevators.

So common are passenger elevators now and so absolutely necessary in the tall office buildings that the history of the first one has been almost forgotten, and yet it created a sensation in its day. This elevator was placed in the Fifth Avenue hotel in New York when it was built, and as the first passenger elevator in the world it was a drawing card as one of the sights of New York. A small plate suitably inscribed informs visitors to the Fifth Avenue hotel elevators today of that fact. It was a screw elevator, the carriage being raised or lowered by the revolutions of a big screw. Compared with the swift moving elevators of today, which shoot up and down rapidly and smoothly, this was a very crude affair. Many of New York's private houses are now equipped with elevators so adjusted that the passenger operates them by pushing a button. These are practically automatic.

Natural Disadvantages.

"Taking into consideration the things Sharp has had to contend against, I think his success as a lawyer has been remarkable."

"Why, what did he ever have to contend against?"

"Everything. He came of a wealthy family. He didn't have to work his way through college. He never studied by the light of a pine torch, never had to drive a dray, never walked six miles to school and wasn't compelled to borrow his books. He had every possible facility, and yet he has done well from the very start."—Chicago Tribune.

To Use Externally.

Customer—I want 10 cents' worth of zinc for my sister.

Drug Clerk—What kind of zinc? There are about 40 kinds. What does your sister want to use it for?

Customer—I don't know the kind. She said I must not tell what she wanted it for?

Drug Clerk—Was it oxide of zinc she wanted?

Customer—Yes, that's it; outside of zinc to put on her face.—Brooklyn Life.

Prevented A Tragedy.

Timely information given Mrs. George Long, of New Straitsville, Ohio, prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. A frightful cough had long kept her awake every night. She had tried many remedies and doctors but steadily grew worse until urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle wholly cured her, and she writes this marvelous medicine also cured Mr. Long of a severe attack of Pneumonia. Such cures are positive proof of the matchless merit of this grand remedy for curing all throat, chest and lung troubles. Only 50c and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed. Trial bottles 10 cents, at R. R. Mimicking the Queen.

Few people are perhaps aware how thoroughly Queen Victoria enjoyed a joke. A gentleman in waiting, whom we will call Mr. B——, distinguished for his imitative powers and dramatic talent, was a frequent visitor at both Windsor and Osborne. One day the queen, looking with a certain austerity straight into his face, demanded:

"Now, Mr. B——, I am perfectly well aware that when my back is turned you imitate me. I wish to see how you do it this minute!"

Poor Mr. B—— fell straightway into the royal trap, crimsoned, faltered and utterly lost his countenance.

"Ah," exclaimed the queen, "I see I was right! You ought to be ashamed of yourself!" and then added, laughing as heartily as any schoolgirl, "But, mind you, don't do it again."

In the Dumps.

"I heard a man the other day," said a philologist, "give a novel derivation for the phrase 'in the dumps.' According to him, Dumops, an Egyptian king, built a pyramid and died of melancholy, and from Dumops' name and the story linked with it our word 'dumps' is derived. That is very ingenious and striking, only, like so many ingenious and striking things, it happens to be false. Our word 'dumps' comes from the Danish 'dump,' which means dull, low, depressed. The word, indeed, runs through a number of languages."—Philadelphia Record.

Origin of the Short Story.

It voiced not only the dialect but the habits of thought of a people or locality. From a paragraph of a dozen lines it grew into a half column, but always retaining its conciseness and felicity of statement. It was a foe to prolixity of any kind. It admitted no fine writing or affectation of style. It went directly to the point. It was burdened by no conscientiousness. It was often irreverent. It was devoid of all moral responsibility, but it was original. By degrees it developed character with its incident, often in a few lines gave a striking photograph of a community or a section, but always preached its conclusion without an unnecessary word.—Bret Harte.

COTTON MARKETS.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—The market for cotton futures opened steady, with prices unchanged to six points higher, and after a moment's hesitation turned firm on brisk covering and moderate outside buying, all founded on bullish cables from Liverpool and Manchester and on rumors that Southern spot markets were hardening. October shorts became frightened and that option was bid rapidly up to 7 70 by shorts, or to the same level as January, but with the more pressing demand appeased the market became quieter and slowly eased off to nearly last night's final bids on late months. Europe was a light buyer here in the first hour, as was New Orleans and Chicago. Speculation dragged in the early afternoon. In the last hour the market broke heavily under active local liquidation and near selling and urgent pressure from New Orleans; closed easy, with prices net unchanged to six points lower.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Cotton steady and quiet; middling uplands 8¾c.

Cotton futures market closed easy, as follows: September 7.74, October 7.75, November 7.72, December —, January 7.77, February 7.77, March 7.80, April 7.80, May 7.81.

Spot cotton closed quiet and steady at 1-16c advance; middling uplands 8¾c; middling gulf 8¾c; sales 100 bales.

Net receipts 12 bales; gross receipts 1,034 bales; stock 233,383 bales.

Total to-day—Net receipts 9,433 bales; exports to Great Britain 6,372 bales; exports to France 8,457 bales; exports to the Continent 2,031 bales; stock 114,029 bales.

Consolidated—Net receipts 58,735 bales; exports to Great Britain 26,095 bales; exports to France 9,243 bales; exports to the Continent 21,650 bales.

Total since September 1st.—Net receipts 48,029 bales; exports to Great Britain 25,239 bales exports to France 9,243 bales; exports to the Continent 8,341 bales.

A SONG OF LOVE'S COMING.

Love comes with silent feet
Out of the mist of dreams.
With roses is he crowned;
He bears a sword that gleams.

Love comes with a red rose crown
To where the sleeper lies,
And on the fast closed eyes
The red rose leaves drift down.

They touch the sleeper's lips,
And, sleeping still, he sighs.
They fall upon his heart; he wakes
And looks into Love's eyes.

Oh, waking bitter sweet
Of mingled joy and pain!
Turn, dreamer, ere that Love can speak
And close thine eyes again.

He never more may sleep
Who hears the magic word,
For Love that is with roses crowned
Is girded with a sword.

—Pall Mall Gazette.

THE WILY WIDOW.

And the Visits to Her of Suitors Niles and Giles.

The widow is a resident of Brooklyn. Two of her friends are stockbrokers in Wall street and fellow club members, but they had never spoken of her to each other.

And the widow was wary. While her mind was undecided, she encouraged both and arranged that they call on different occasions. But one evening, unfortunately, the two suitors met, and the situation became embarrassing. Giles, who had entered first, believed he had the right of possession. Niles was of opinion that the earlier caller should take his leave first. Therefore both tarried.

At length, as the hour was growing late, Niles suggested that they depart together and discuss a matter of interest to their club on their homeward way. Giles, unable to find a real excuse, agreed.

Together they boarded a car and together reached the ferry for Manhattan borough.

At this juncture Niles, somewhat unnecessarily, it appeared to Giles, became engaged in a controversy with a man who had jostled him, but the opportunity seemed heaven sent to Giles, and he embraced it to return the way he had come. He had been on the point of asking a crucial question, and, being a man of resolution, he determined not to risk another hour's delay. He stopped a moment in a cigar store to arrange his necktie.

Arriving at the apartment house, he was informed by the hallboy that the elevator had just gone up for the last time. So near the object of his adoration, this seemed but a trivial inconvenience, and, like the ardent P. J. Beranger, "lightly he vaulted up four pair of stairs."

He stood at the door. He entered.
There sat Niles.—Harper's Magazine.

PREPARING CAVIARE.

Process by Which the Toothsome Edible Is Made Marketable.

By far the most valuable byproduct obtained from the sturgeon is the roe, from which the valuable commercial product called caviare is prepared. For this only the hard roe of the "cow" fish is supposed to be used. The manner of preparation is as follows:

After the eggs have been removed from the fish they are placed in large chunks upon a stand, the top of which is formed of a small meshed screen. On the underside is arranged a zinc lined trough, about 18 inches deep, 2 feet wide and 4 feet long. The operator gently rubs the mass of eggs back and forth over the screen. The mesh is just large enough to let the eggs drop through, and as they are separated from the membrane by the rubbing they fall through into the trough and are thence drawn off into tubs by means of a sliding door at the end of the trough.

After all the roe has been separated the tub is removed and a certain proportion of the best Luneberg (Germany) salt added to the roe, after which the operator carefully stirs and mixes the mass with his hands. The most delicate part of the whole operation is in the manner of mixing. No direct rule can be given for doing this portion of the work, as the condition of the roe regulates the time consumed and the manner of handling. It requires practical experience to become proficient.

After adding the salt the mass of eggs first dries up, but in 10 or 15 minutes the strength of the salt draws from the eggs their watery constituents and a copious brine is formed, which can be poured off when the tub becomes too full. The salted eggs are poured into very finely meshed sieves, which hold about ten pounds each. In the caviare house are usually arranged long, sloping boards, with narrow strips nailed on each side. On these the sieves are placed and are left there from 8 to 20 hours in order to thoroughly drain.

The eggs have now become caviare of commerce and are transferred to small casks of either oak or pine, which have been steamed in order to prevent any possible leakage; the casks are covered and allowed to stand until the gas escapes and the eggs settle. The vacant space caused by the settling is then filled, and the cask headed up and put in a cool place until ready for shipment. The casks cost about $1 each and hold about 135 pounds net. It requires about 11 quarts of salt to prepare a keg of caviare. —Philadelphia Press.

CULINARY CAPERS.

If parsley is wrapped up in a piece of wet cheesecloth, it can be kept for some time.

Nutmeg is much used by the Italians when cooking spinach, as it is said to bring out the flavor of the vegetable.

Two or three leaves from a rose geranium added to crab apple jelly while it is cooking will, it is said, impart a delicious flavor.

A pinch of powdered ginger added to cranberries in cooking will bring out the flavor. They should not be stewed to a jam, but kept separate, looking more like candied cherries.

For a vegetable puree either young turnip tops or even young fresh nettle tops are recommended. They are cooked in the same way—boiled—rubbed through a sieve and added to cream.

Salsify (oyster plant) is excellent if soaked in vinegar and water, then dipped in oil, sliced and heated in white sauce. Bake in shells, having sprinkled grated cheese and bread crumbs over the top.

Italian dried peas are popular still in Great Britain under the familiar name of peas pudding. The vegetable is soaked overnight, then boiled, rubbed through a sieve and sent to the table with the addition of a little thick cream.

Size of Propellers.

"The small size of the screw," says a boiler maker, "is not due to the perception of any inventor of its greater effect as compared with a larger one, but purely to accident. When I first engaged in the machinery business, screws for steamers were made as large as possible, it being the theory that the greater the diameter the higher the speed. A vessel was placed on Lake Erie with a screw so large that it was deemed best to cast each blade in two parts and then weld them together. During a storm all these blades of the propeller broke at the welding, reducing the diameter by more than two-thirds.

"To the surprise of the captain the vessel shot forward at a speed such as had never been attained before. Engineers then experimented with smaller propellers and discovered that they were much more effective than large ones. Had it not been for that accident we might have gone on using large blade screws to the present day."

Professions Not Overcrowded.

There is a dearth of thoroughly trained men in all professions. The more exacting the conditions the greater the need. The thoroughly trained man nowadays must be a college man. The universities are using every effort to train men along special lines for definite efficiency in something. The old idea of college education as general culture is passing away. The university takes men as they are and makes the most out of what they can do. A man today in America is foolish to be "self made" when better means are at hand. It is equally foolish to choose a self taught man as against other men who have worked with equal zest and force and with much better advantages.

Formerly a man of an executive turn, a leader in business or politics, found in a college education little that could help him. Now he finds everything. In the future the college men will be the natural leaders in industrial and political affairs. The reason is that the men born to lead cannot afford to stay out of college.—Success.

The Reading Cure.

Reading aloud is recommended by physicians as a benefit to persons affected with any chest complaint. The recommendation is made because in all cases of lung trouble it is important for the sufferer to indulge in exercise by which the chest is in part filled by and emptied of air, for the exercise is strengthening to the throat, lungs and muscles of the chest.

Reading aloud can be practiced by all and besides being a curative act can be a pleasure and profit to both reader and hearers. In this treatment it is recommended that an overdose of medicine be avoided, that the reading be deliberate, without being allowed to drag, that the enunciation be clear, the body be held in an easy, unstrained upright position, so that the chest will have free play, and that the breathing be natural and as deep as possible without undue effort.

Throwing Rice.

How many people know that the custom of throwing rice at a wedding symbolizes not the expression of good luck, but it is a metaphorical flight of arrows shot at the bridegroom. In uncivilized ages most nations were accustomed to the forcible capture of a bride by her lover, and the attempts on the part of her male relatives to prevent her husband from carrying her away is typified by a volley of rice instead of more fatal missiles.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by R. R. BELLAMY, druggist. †

THE LATEST AS TO NERVES AND STRENGTH

It is not muscle so much as the nerves back of muscle which show one's strength and power of endurance. And the study with able physicians of to-day is how to keep the nerves in perfect health and fitted for the strain of everyday living. Headache of every type, nerve weakness, dyspepsia, sleeplessness, languor, restlessness, nervous dyspepsia, muscular weakness, brain weariness, poor circulation,—a thousand different unpleasant feelings and symptoms are due to nerve waste and nerve weakness,—especially in women and children. But how can all this be prevented, one will ask? How can my broken-down constitution be repaired, and nerve strength and full, robust health be secured. Just two points to remember: Determine that you will grow strong in nerves and health, and decide to use at once that most famous nerve cure, COCELIN. It is delicious in taste, quick in action and makes the wearied nerves tingle with renewed strength and every function the stronger and faculty the brighter by its use. Druggists sell it.

The Morning Star.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

SATURDAY MORNING, SEPT. 7.

TRADE ADVICES VERY GOOD.

Bradstreet Reports Demand for Goods Compares Well With Last Year. Business at the South.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Bradstreet's to-morrow will say:

Trade advices are as a rule very good. Fall demand, now in full swing at the East, West and Northwest, compares well with last year and business continues to expand at the South. Specially marked features are the reports of a large seasonable distribution, heavy shipments and improved collections from leading Western centres.

All measures of trade demand point to the maintenance of general business on a scale not hitherto equalled for this time of year, while failures, though more numerous than last year, are less hurtful than one or two months ago and really reflect only the normal friction inseparable from the conduct of business in a volume.

Industrial disturbances are not cutting the figure they did earlier. Prices for the fourth successive month have advanced, and are now well up to the highest of the year.

The cotton trade is in an interesting position. The actual yield in the season just closed was 10,388,000 bales, valued at nearly $500,000,000, the largest value ever received for an American cotton crop. The latest Government report shows that on 17,000,000 out of 27,532,00 acres planted, the condition is better than a year ago, and the outlook is, therefore, for a some what larger yield than last year's.

For the week business failures number 169 as against 188 last week and 154 in this week a year ago.

THE NEWS IN LONDON.

A Gar Reaching Feeling of Sorrow and Indignation Aroused—Anxiety for Further Details.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

LONDON, September 6.—The news of the attempt upon the life of President McKinley spread slowly in London. The first ticker reports were discredited; then, with the confirmation and general dissemination of the news, arose a far-reaching feeling of sorrow and indignation which, wherever Americans were gathered, almost gained the proportions of a panic, accompanied by feverish anxiety for further details. The thousands of Americans now in London were mostly at the theatres when the news arrived; and returning to the hotels found anxious groups of Englishmen and Americans discussing what, without distinction of race, is regarded as a national calamity. The announcement of the attempted assassination was received too late for extra editions of the papers to announce the news to the mass of the English people and they will not learn until they take up their morning papers of the President's accident.

Former Governor Brown, of Georgia, and Mrs. Nat C. Goodwin and other Americans who were to have dined at the Carlton to-night, cancelled their engagement on hearing the news, and all the orchestras ceased playing. Crowds surrounded the bulletin boards.

AT SEWELL'S POINT.

Another Large Shipbuilding Plant With $3,000,000 Capital.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NORFOLK, VA., Sept. 6.—It was officially announced here to-day that in addition to the shipbuilding plant to be erected at a cost of $1,000,000 by the Trigg Company, of Richmond, and companies from Philadelphia and Bath, Me., that a shipbuilding concern, with a capital of $3,000,000, would apply for a charter at once under the Virginia laws to erect a plant at Sewell's Point, about five miles down the Elizabeth river, where they have secured options on over 1,000 acres of water front land at $750 per acre. Large dry docks and railways, in addition to the regular mechanical features necessary, will be a part of the plant. It will be run in opposition to the Newport News Shipbuilding Company and will be known as the Norfolk Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company.

GREAT SORROW AT THE CAPITAL.

News of the Shooting of President McKinley Caused Tremendous Sensation.

ALL DEPARTMENTS CLOSED.

Absent Officials of the Government Recalled to Their Posts—Precautionary Measures by Army and Navy. Vice President Roosevelt

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The news of the shooting of President McKinley, which reached Washington first through the medium of the Associated Press late this afternoon, caused a tremendous sensation. So frequent have been rumors of this sort, often put afloat in recent years for stock jobbing purposes, that the general disposition at first was to withhold full acceptance of the story of the news, but when it was confirmed a feeling of deep gloom and profound sorrow spread over the city, for Mr. McKinley's delightful personality had endeared him to the citizens of Washington, apart from the official class, in a degree that rarely has been equalled. It was some time before the full force of the blow was appreciated; the people were stunned and they could not respond at once and fully comprehend the extent of the great disaster that had fallen upon the country and themselves.

Then the newspapers' extras began to pour out, the carriers rushed madly through the streets and crowds of people began to gather from all quarters of the city around the newspapers' bulletin boards.

The work of the official day was done when the news of the great calamity arrived here, and the great executive departments had generally emptied themselves of their human workmen and very few of the officials were to be found at their desks.

At the Departments.

In the Navy Department, Mr. Hackett, the acting secretary, who had also quitted the building, was recalled by Captain Cowes, the other acting head of the navigation bureau, and he immediately put himself in readiness to meet the emergency. At Buffalo, on the Exposition grounds, the navy had a splendid representation in the shape of the marine battalion under Captain Leonard, and this force will be made immediately available if it is decided by the persons about the President that a guard is necessary near his person.

At the War Department General Gillespie, chief of engineers of the army, who was acting secretary, immediately sent messages to the Secretary of War and General Brooke, commanding the Department of the East, giving such unofficial information as was available. He telegraphed to Major Simonds, the engineer officer stationed at Buffalo, asking him to report the facts at the earliest possible moment. Conferences were held between Acting Secretary Hackett and General Gillespie in reference to any joint steps which the army and navy might be called upon to take.

Precautions Taken.

In addition to the marines representing the navy, the United States army is well represented at Buffalo and at near by Fort Niagara, and with the troops thus at his disposal General Gillespie says he is fully prepared to meet any call that may be made upon him. General Gillespie finally got into communication with Secretary Root and Assistant Secretary Sanger, and as a result of the telephonic talk he proceeded to use some of the forces at his disposal. He telegraphed an order to Fort Foster, N. Y., to have an officer, a physician and a squad of men proceed immediately to the hospital where the President is lying to act as a guard.

Steps were next taken to provide for the future of the executive branch of the government. It was realized that even under the most favorable conditions the President's injuries are of such a character as to make it almost certain that he cannot undertake for a long time to discharge the duties of chief executive, even in the most formal way. Every member of the cabinet able to travel is expected to speed at once to Buffalo and there a cabinet council will be held to decide upon the course to be followed by the executive branches.

Vice President Roosevelt

Of course, will hold himself in readiness to do whatever is necessary and to meet the obligations imposed upon the Vice President by the constitution of the United States. These are contained in paragraph 6, Section 1, Article II, in the following:

"In case of the removal of the President from office, or of his death, resignation or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the Vice President, etc."

Under the terms of this article, as soon as Mr. Roosevelt is assured by proper authority—probably in this case by the senior member of the cabinet, Secretary Hay, who will doubtless be in Buffalo by to-morrow morning—he will undertake at once in a provisional way to discharge such duties as may devolve on him. Much will depend upon the report of the physicians upon the character of the President's wound as the extent to which Mr. Roosevelt will discharge the presidential duties, if he undertakes them at all, and it is almost certain that in the absence of great emergency in public affairs, even if called to assume these obligations, the Vice President will confine himself in the exercise of his powers to the discharge of the most routine and indispensable functions.

Conference Held.

During the early evening a conference was held at the War Department of such of the prominent army officers as could be gathered at short notice by Gen. Gillespie. He informed them he had communicated with General Brooke, at Governor's Island, and that the General had replied that he would start immediately for Buffalo, where he expected in the early morning to take personal charge of all arrangements made for the guarding of the presidential household. Meanwhile he had directed that the troops which had been placed as a guard around the hospital in the Exposition grounds be transferred to the Milburn home where the President lies, to serve as guard and keep back the public and preserve quiet.

Expressions of Sympathy.

It was somewhat gratifying to the officials here that the very first expression of official sympathy should come from the island of Cuba in the shape of the following telegram:

"Havana, Sept. 6.—Mayor and city council of Havana have called, expressing sorrow and solicitude for the President and desire that his family be advised of these expressions.

(Signed) SCOTT,
Adjutant General."

THE WOULD-BE ASSASSIN.

Description of the Man Arrested—Believed by Secret Service Men to Belong to the Haymarket Gang.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

BUFFALO, September 6.—The would-be assassin is a Pole, named Fred Neiman, 28 years old, stands five feet nine inches high, weighs 160 pounds, has dark brown hair, blue eyes, smooth face, regular features with prominent nose. He speaks very good English and has claimed to come from Cleveland, Chicago and Detroit, but has told so many stories that his home is still a matter of conjecture. It is not yet known whether he was born in this country or not. When arrested he was asked why he had shot the President and replied: "I am an anarchist and have done my duty." Later, he denied to the police officials that he was an anarchist.

At the home of John Nowaks, 1078 Broadway, it was stated that Neiman came there last Saturday. He said that he was from Toledo and that he came to the house to see the exposition. He was alone and had no visitors. His valise contained an empty revolver case and a few clothes.

Secret Service Officials.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—It is the opinion of the Secret Service officials in this city that the shooting of the President is an out cropping, in an obscure way, of the Haymarket riots, and that it will be found eventually that Neiman, the would-be assassin, has some connection with the group of persons associated in the Chicago anarchists' riot. The Secret Service officials are of this opinion because of the name of the man, and the fact that he is probably from the same general section of the country as some of the Haymarket participants. The Secret Service Bureau had the Paterson, N. J., group of anarchists very thoroughly under surveillance and are confident that Neiman has no association with these people. Three Secret Service operatives were in Buffalo about the President at the time of the shooting and another was on the way to Cleveland. While the theory of the Secret Service here is as stated, at the same time no facts concerning the matter are at this time known to the Secret Service Bureau, so it is conceded to be but a surmise at present that Neiman belongs to the Haymarket gang.

DEEP SYMPATHY EXPRESSED.

Feeling in the South for President McKinley, as Shown by Telegrams From Governors of States

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

RICHMOND, VA., September 6.—Governor J. Hoge Tyler, of Virginia, who is at his home in East Radford, Va., when informed by wire of the shooting of President McKinley, telegraphed the following:

"It was with a shock of deep regret that I learned of the wounding of President McKinley and I sincerely hope he may recover. In him the South has the fairest and kindest President under Republican rule. He has done more to allay sectional feeling and restore commercial relations between the North and South than any other. I recall the feeling he showed at Philadelphia when he expressed a desire to have Confederate veterans march beside those of the Union cause. I believe his earnest desire was to have sectional feeling obliterated. Personally I have ever found him most courteous and willing to do those things Virginia asks. As a man he fulfilled his every relation in life to the admiration of all."

Gov. Davis of Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., Sept. 6.—Governor Jeff. Davis said: "The attempted assassination of President McKinley is to be deplored. All true Americans, regardless of political faith, bow in deep regret at this sad occurrence. In behalf of the people of Arkansas I desire to express to the bereaved family the sympathy of the entire State in this sad bereavement."

Sayers of Texas.

AUSTIN, TEXAS, Sept. 6.—Governor Sayers said the attempted assassination of the President could not be too strongly condemned. His excellent personal character entitled him to the most complete protection wherever he went."

South Carolina's Governor.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 6.—Governor McSweeney wired the following: The people of South Carolina were shocked to day to learn of the attempt to assassinate your excellency. Our deepest sympathies go out to you and your family, and we sincerely hope and pray that the giver of all good will spare your life to our nation for years to come. I am sure in thus speaking that I voice the sentiment of the people not alone of South Carolina, but of the entire South.

ANARCHISTS OF PATERSON

Express No Regret at the Shooting of the President—Assassin Neiman Toasted Time and Again.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—As a whole, the anarchist group of Paterson, N. J., express no regret at the shooting of President McKinley. On the contrary, there was a great gathering of the members to-night at Bartholdi Hall in that city, and Neiman, who shot the President, was toasted in beer time and time again.

All of the talkative members of the group say Neiman is unknown to them. One of them said: "We do not know him, but he is one of us. He did what it was his duty to do and we honor him, while personally thinking his effort might better have been employed across the ocean upon some crowned head."

They all deny there is any truth to the report that at any time President McKinley was included in the plots to assassinate the heads of nations. They claim that President McKinley's life was never declared forfeited by them and that the work of to-day is that of no branch of their organization.

Petro Esteve, who in the past has gloried in each killing of a head of a nation or in any attempt, was very loud to-night in his denials of any participation by the Paterson group in the affair at Buffalo this afternoon. Esteve even goes so far as to deny that Neiman is an anarchist. "I never heard of him," Esteve said. "He is probably some German lunatic and fool."

The first question asked in Paterson, when news of the shooting of the President was received, was whether or not the assailant was from that place. The feeling among the citizens outside of anarchist circles is one of the deepest indignation.

ATTEMPT TO KILL THE PRESIDENT.

Cowardly Attack by an Anarchist at a Public Reception in Buffalo.

ASSASSIN FIRED TWO SHOTS.

President McKinley Severely Hurt, But Wounds Not Likely to Prove Fatal. Man Arrested—Narrowly Escaped Lynching.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

BUFFALO, Sept. 6.—While President McKinley was receiving in the Temple of Music this afternoon he was approached by a man with a dark moustache and with one hand covered with a handkerchief. As the man extended his hand to the President, apparently with the intention of shaking hands with him, he fired a shot which entered the President's right breast, lodging against the breast bone. Another shot was fired at once which entered the President's abdomen. The assailant was immediately arrested and was thrown to the ground and quick as a flash twenty men were upon him. When rescued he was covered with blood from a gash in the face.

Cries of lynching were heard in every direction but the police managed to get the man out of the grounds and locked him up in a station house a short distance from the grounds. Later he was removed to the police headquarters.

Detective Geary was near the prisoner and the President fell into his arms.

"Am I shot?" asked the President. The officer opened the President's vest and seeing blood, replied, "Yes, I am afraid you are, Mr. President."

The President was at once taken to the Emergency hospital, where a bullet which had lodged against the breast-bone was removed. Later, the President was reported as resting easily.

Probing for the Ball.

At 5 o'clock Dr. Roswell Parke, the well known surgeon, arrived at the hospital and after putting the President under an anæsthetic began probing for the ball in the abdomen.

Dr. Harrington, the police surgeon, at 6:45 P. M., announced for Doctors Parke, Parmenter and Mynter, who performed the operation, that the first bullet struck the sternum and glanced off, causing a slight flesh wound. The second bullet perforated both walls and has not yet been found. The bullet probably is in the stomach. The wounds are not necessarily fatal.

Hope of Recovery.

The following bulletin was issued by the physicians at 7 P. M.:

"The President was shot about 4 o'clock; one bullet struck him on the upper portion of the breastbone, glancing and not penetrating; the second ball penetrated the abdomen five inches below the left nipple and one and a half inches to the left of the median line. The abdomen was opened through the line of the bullet wound. It was found that the bullet had penetrated the stomach. The opening in the front wall of the stomach was carefully closed with silk stitches, after which a search was made for a hole in the back part of the stomach. This was found and closed in the same way. The further course of the bullet could not be discovered, although careful search was made. The abdominal wound was closed without drainage. No injury to the intestines or other abdominal organ was discovered. The patient stood the operation well; pulse of good quality, rate of 130, condition at the conclusion of operation was gratifying. The result cannot be foretold. His condition at present justifies hope of recovery."

At 7:25 P. M. President McKinley was placed in an automobile ambulance and taken from the Exposition hospital to the home of President Milburn, on Delaware avenue.

Just after the arrival of the President at Mr. Milburn's house, Mr. Milburn gave out a statement saying that while the President's condition was serious the wounds were not necessarily fatal. Dr. John Hammetter, of Baltimore, a specialist on stomach troubles, saw the President. He said that he did not believe that the wound would prove fatal.

A Cowardly Attack.

It was a few moments after 4 P. M., while President McKinley was holding a public reception in the great Temple of Music on the Pan-American grounds that the cowardly attack was made, with what success time alone can tell.

Standing in the midst of crowds numbering thousands, surrounded by every evidence of good will, pressed by a motley throng of people, showered with expressions of love and loyalty, besieged by multitudes all eager to clasp his hand, and these surroundings with the ever-recurring plaudits of an admiring army of sight seers ringing in his ears, the blow of the assassin fell, and in an instant pleasure gave way to pain, admiration to agony, folly turned to fury and pandemonium followed.

To-night a surging, swaying, eager multitude throngs the city's main thoroughfares, choking the streets in front of the principal newspaper offices, scanning the bulletins with anxious eyes and groaning or cheering in turn each succeeding announcement, as the nature of the message sinks or buoys their hopes.

President Well Guarded.

The President, though well guarded by United States Secret Service detectives, was fully exposed to such an attack as occurred. He stood at the edge of the raised dais upon which stands the great pipe organ at the east side of the magnificent structure. Throngs of people crowded in, to gaze upon their executive, perchance to clasp his hand, and then fight their way out in the good natured mob that every minute swelled and multiplied at the points of ingress and egress to the building. The President was in a cheerful mood and was enjoying to the full the hearty evidences of good will which everywhere met his gaze. Upon his right stood John G. Milburn, of Buffalo, President of the Pan-American Exposition, chatting with the President and introducing to him especially persons of note who approached. Upon the President's left stood Mr. Cortelyou.

The Assassin Approached.

It was shortly after 4 o'clock when from the throng which surrounded the presidential party a medium sized man of ordinary appearance and plainly dressed in black approached as if to greet the President. Both Secretary Cortelyou and President Milburn noticed that the man's hand was swathed in a bandage or handkerchief. Reports of bystanders differ as to his hand. He worked his way amid the stream of people up to the edge of the dais until he was within two feet of the President. Mr. McKinley smiled, bowed and extended his hand in that spirit of geniality the American people so well know, when suddenly the sharp crack of a revolver rang out loud and clear above the hum of voices, the shuffling of myriad feet and vibrating waves of applause that even and anon swept here and there o'er the assemblage.

President Shot.

There was an instant of almost complete silence. The President stood still, a look of hesitancy, almost of bewilderment on his face. Then he retreated a step, white a pallor began to steal over his features. The multitude, only partially aware that something serious had happened, paused in surprise, while necks were craned and all eyes turned as one toward the rostrum where a great tragedy was being enacted.

Then came a commotion. With the leap of a tiger three men threw themselves forward as with one impulse and sprang toward the would-be assassin. Two of them were United States Secret Service men who were on the lookout and whose duty it was to guard against just such a calamity as had here befallen the President and the nation. The third was a bystander, a negro, who had only an instant previously grasped in his dusky palm the hand of the President. As one man the trio hurled themselves upon the President's assailant. In a twinkling he was borne to the ground, his weapon was wrested from his grasp and strong arms pinioned him down.

Then the multitude which thronged the edifice began to come to a realizing sense of the awfulness of the scene of which they had been unwilling witnesses. A murmer arose, spread and swelled to a hum of confusion, then grew to a babel of sounds and later to a pandemonium of noises.

People Horrified.

The crowds that a moment before had stood mute and motionless as in bewildered ignorance of the enormity of the thing, now with a single impulse surged forward toward the stage of the horrid drama, while a hoarse cry welled up from a thousand throats and a thousand men charged forward to lay hands upon the perpetrator of the dastardly crime.

For a moment the confusion was terrible. The crowd surged forward regardless of consequences. Men shouted and fought, women screamed and children cried. Some of these nearest the doors fled from the edifice in fear of a stampede, while hundreds of others from the outside struggled blindly forward in the effort to penetrate the crowded building and solve the mystery of excitement and panic which every moment grew and swelled within the congested interior of the edifice.

Inside on a slightly raised dias was enacted within those few feverish moments a tragedy, so dramatic in character, so thrilling in its intensity that few who looked on will ever be able to give a succinct account of what really did transpire.

President Not Alarmed.

But of the multitude which witnessed or bore a part in the scene of turmoil and turbulence there was but one mind which seemed to retain its equilibrium, one hand which remained steady, one eye which gazed with unflinching calmness and one voice which held its even tenor and faltered not at the most critical juncture. They were the mind and the hand and the eye and the voice of President McKinley.

After the first shock of the assassin's shots, he retreated a step, then as the detectives leaped upon his assailant he turned, walked steadily to a chair and seated himself, at the same time removing his hat and bowing his head in his hands.

In an instant Secretary Cortelyou and President Milburn were at his side. His waistcoat was hurriedly opened, the President meanwhile admonishing those about him to remain calm and telling them not to be alarmed.

"But you are wounded," cried his secretary, "let me examine."

"No, I think not," answered the President. "I am not badly hurt, I assure you."

Nevertheless his outer garments were loosened, and when a stream of crimson was seen to wind its way down his breast, spreading its tell-tale stain over the white surface of the linen, their worst fears were confirmed.

Try to Lynch the Prisoner.

The news of the attempted assassination had in the meanwhile been spread broadcast by the newspapers. Like wildfire it spread from mouth to mouth. Then bulletins began to appear on the boards along the newspaper row and when the announcement was made that the prisoner had been taken to police headquarters, only two blocks distant from the newspaper section, the crowds surged down toward the terrace eager for a glimpse of the prisoner.

At police headquarters they were met by a strong cordon of police, which was drawn up across the pavement on Pearl street and admittance was denied to any but officials used to take part in the examination of the prisoner. In a few minutes the crowd had grown from tens to hundreds, and these in turn quickly swelled to thousands until the street was completely blocked with a mass of humanity. It was at this junction that some one raised the cry of "Lynch him!" Like a flash the cry was taken up and the whole crowd as if ignited by the single match thus applied re echoed the cry "Lynch him!" "Hang him!" Closer the crowd surged forward; denser the throng became as new arrivals swelled the swaying multitude. The situation was becoming critical when suddenly the big doors were flung open and a squad of reserves arrived with solid front, drove the crowd back from the curb, then across the street and then gradually succeeded in dispersing them from about the entrance to the station.

Fifty Thousand People.

By this time there were probably fifty thousand people assembled in the vicinity of Pearl, Seneca, Erie streets and the terrace. The crowd was so great that it became necessary to rope off the entire street in front of police headquarters and at a late hour to-night the police were still patrolling streets in the neighborhood in squads of three or four.

Mrs. McKinley Informed.

Immediately the President was cared for at the Exposition grounds, Director General W. I. Buchanan started for the Milburn residence to forestall any information that might reach there by telephone or otherwise. Very luckily he was the first to arrive with the information. The Niagara Falls trip had tired Mrs McKinley and on returning to the Milburn residence she took leave of her nieces, the Misses Barber, and the President's niece, Miss Duncan, as well as their hostess, Mrs. Milburn, and went to her room to rest.

Mr. Buchanan broke the news as gently as possible to the nieces and consulted with them and Mrs. Milburn as to the best course to pursue in breaking the news to Mrs. McKinley. It was finally decided that on her awakening or shortly thereafter, Mr. Buchanan should break the news to her, if, in the meantime her physician Dr. Rixey had not arrived.

Mrs. McKinley awoke from her sleep at about 5:30 and the news was broken to her as gently as possible. She stood it bravely though considerably affected.

President Rallying.

At 10:40 P. M. the following bulletin by the attending physicians was the only indication of the condition of the President's wounds:

"The President is rallying and is resting comfortably. At 10:15 P. M. temperature 100 4 degrees, pulse 124, respiration 24.

HAS MADE A CONFESSION.

Would-be Assassin Says He is an Anarchist—Denies Having Any Confederate Shows No Sign of Insanity.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 6.—Leon Czologosz, the would-be assassin, has signed a confession covering six pages of foolscap, which states that he is an anarchist and that he became an enthusiastic member of that body through the influence of Emma Goldman, whose writings he had read and whose lectures he had listened to. He denies having any confederates, and said he decided on the act three days ago and bought the revolver with which the act was committed in Buffalo. He has seven brothers and sisters in Cleveland and the Cleveland directory has the names of about that number living on Hosmer street and Ackland avenue, which adjoin. Some of them are butchers and others in different trades. He is now detained at police headquarters pending the results of the President's injuries. Czologosz does not appear in the least uneasy or penitent for his action. He says he was induced by his attention to Emma Goldman's lectures and writings to decide that the present form of government in this country was all wrong, and he thought the best way to end it was by killing the President. He shows no sign of insanity, but is very reticent about much of his career. While acknowledging himself an anarchist he does not state to what branch of the organization he belongs.
